Dear Michael,

I refer to your query in relation to the felling of trees which are under 10 years of age and which were planted to comply with the replanting condition of a felling licence. Under Section 41(1)(a)(ii) of the Forestry Act, 1946, such trees must be maintained and protected for a period of ten years from the date of planting. A felling licence cannot, therefore, be issued in respect of these trees.

Please call me on 053-60170 if you need clarification or wish to discuss further.

Yours sincerely,

Brendan Ennis
